DISMANTLING THE THOUGHT: "I DON'T KNOW MY PURPOSE"

"I don't know what God wants me to do"

Many people get stuck with what their calling or purpose is. They either have too many options or lack clarity about what God wants them to do.

Variations of the thought "I don't know what my purpose is" sounds like:

"Is this God's will for me?"
"I don't know what God wants me to do"

First things first, any time your thought is a question, answer it.

The question is coming up because of a doubt, uncertainty, or confusion.

So answer it then you can deal with it.

And the question is doubting, so the answer would be: this is not the will of God for me, so I want to make sure.

Here's the thing about doubt. Whenever doubt is present you are not in a having state. You are refusing receiving.

And it's not that you don't have it, but you are refusing receiving it.

Think about it. When you have something – you are enjoying it – you've received it and are using it.

When you have something, but you're doubting if it's yours – you are refusing it.

So, what if you already have what you desire, but your doubt is actually refusing it?

Mark 11:23

"For verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith."

Doubt is the blocker. Doubt keeps us from having.

DISMANTLING THE THOUGHT: "I DON'T KNOW MY PURPOSE"

So this doubt of "Is it God's will?" keeps you from knowing God's will. It refuses receiving it.

Doubt blocks the desire.

And we all have it. We are all going to face doubt.

So removing it becomes the work.

Learning how to navigate the doubt, process it, not internalize, not catastrophic it, not letting it define you.

While it's easy to say drop the doubt, which is possible, it can be deeply embedded, which requires dismantling it.

So let's dismantle it.

To dismantle any thought go after the beliefs.

If this statement was true (that you don't know God's will), what would you have to believe?

- That God is a respecter of persons - that others have a different spirit, we are all His children. No difference in us than apostle Paul - we have the same spirit. The difference is in the degree of expression. We all have the same life from God in our inner man, but our outer man is different. Therefore, the expression of God's spirit will be different. Some people express Spirit more through their mind, others their emotions and others their will. The inner new man can only be expressed through the outer man. The outer man is what causes all of your frustrations. And this is where your work is.
- That I know God's will by a mental understanding - Romans 12:1-2 "Therefore, I urge you, brothers and sisters, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to God—this is your true and proper worship. 2 Do not conform to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is—his good, pleasing and perfect will." - when we are willing to consecrate our mind, will, and emotions to God then we will prove His will. The new life within can be expressed when we submit our mind, will, and emotions to God. We prove God's will when our outer man belongs to the Lord in the same way our inner man does. This is when it's revealed.

DISMANTLING THE THOUGHT: "I DON'T KNOW MY PURPOSE"

- That God is withholding His will from you - blocked. "Therefore do not be foolish, but understand what the Lord's will is." Ephesians 5:17. God's will is available. If you want to stop your ear from hearing anything, you don't need to plug it with a tree. A small finger will do. It's the same way in knowing God's will. A small thing can block it. Watchman Nee was walking with a friend in a garden and they went to sit in some chairs under a tree. His friend said there is a bright star in the sky, but I cannot see it because a leaf has blocked the view. If someone comes and tells me all the many ways to see the star, I still could not see it even though the ways he said were good. The reason is that my position is wrong. I am standing on the wrong ground. A little leaf can block the light of a big star. Many times you aren't aware of God's will because of small things. If you've been seeking God's will over and over again and are still unclear, stop what you're doing (the methods) and change the person. It means you are blocked from hearing. So look at your mind, will, and emotions. Has he already spoken to you and you are not willing. Do you think thoughts that don't align with what God has said about you? Are your affections set on things above?

Where to start?

This was deep and if you're ready, this is where you start

- Operate from a different thought. God's will is revealed to a renewed mind (Romans 12:2). He doesn't force it. He is always waiting for us to become willing. So Instead of "I don't know if this is what God wants me to do" change it to "I am willing to do your will".
- Become a friend of God - in Genesis 18 when God was about to destroy the city of Sodom He came to Abraham because He could not hide this matter from him. Abraham was a friend of God.

23 And the scripture was fulfilled that says, "Abraham believed God, and it was credited to him as righteousness," and he was called God's friend.

A friend knows the mind of a friend

John 15:15 "I no longer call you servants, because a servant does not know his master's business. Instead, I have called you friends, for everything that I learned from my Father I have made known to you."

There was no barrier between Abraham and God. That's why God could not hide what He was about to do.

Becoming a friend of God starts with being in right position with God.
